A - Queens Museum of Art, N 40.745674°, W 73.846528°. The Queens Museum of Art is home to the amazing Panorama of the City of New York, a scale model of New York City built for the 1964 World's Fair. The 9,335-square-foot (867.2 m<sup>2</sup>) architectural model includes every single building constructed before 1992 in all five boroughs. The total of 895,000 individual structures took three years and a team of 100 people to build. In 1992 model makers changed over 60,000 structures to bring the miniature city up-to-date. In March 2009 the museum announced the intention to update the panorama on an ongoing basis. The twin towers of the World Trade Center will be replaced when the construction of the One World Trade Center is complete.

Manhattan, is one of New York's five boroughs and is what people most often think of when they picture New York City. Manhattan is actually a city island and includes most of the best known attractions in New York. The word "Manhattan" comes from the Lenape who inhabited the area before the Europeans and is translated as "island of many hills". In 1625 the Dutch built a Fort on Manhattan Island, which marked the birth of New York City. Today Manhattan is one of the most densely populated island cities in the world, with a 2008 population of 1,634,795 people living in a land area of 59.47 km<sup>2</sup> (22.96 square miles).

G - City Hall station, New York. N 40.713085°, W 74.004236°

City Hall på södra Manhattan var en gång i tiden en av världens allra vackraste tunnelbanestationer. Den öppnade redan 1904 men i takt med stadens och kollektivtrafikens snabba utveckling blev den snabbt föråldrad. Och trots stationens prakt togs 1945 beslutet att stänga ner stationen eftersom en anpassning till modern standard ansågs för dyr. Sen dess har City Hall Station varit en spökstation. Det går att besöka den än i dag, stadens transitmuseum arrangerar guidade turer. Men enklast är att helt enkelt sitta kvar på 6-tågen som går downtown, de vänder nämligen på City Hall Station innan de fortsätter uptown igen.

H - Times Square, N 40.758891°, W 73.985137° - New York's famous city square, Times Square is located at the junction of Broadway and Seventh Avenue and stretching from West 42nd to West 47th Streets. A place filled with video screens, LED signs, and flashing lights; a top attraction or a tourist nightmare depending on your perspective, the "new" Times Square is a family-friendly theme park of themed restaurants, theaters and hotels, as well as a developing business district. The lights and signs can be viewed anytime, but the most enchanting experience comes when one visits Times Square at night, as all the signs and screens are ablaze with color. Times Square is also well known for its famous New Year's Eve ball drop.

I - Wall Street, N 40.706379°, W 74.009511°, is the historic heart of the Financial District and the home of the New York Stock Exchange. The term has become a byword for American big business and stock trading. A narrow street running downhill from Broadway to the East River, Wall Street was named for the wall that was built here in 17th century by the Dutch to protect their growing settlement. By the late 18th century, traders and speculators would gather under a buttonwood tree at the foot of Wall Street to trade informally. This was the origin of the New York Stock Exchange that was established in 1817. Other famous streets in New York City include Broadway, Fifth Avenue and Madison Avenue.

J - Brooklyn Bridge connects Manhattan and Brooklyn by spanning the East River. N 40.705690°, W 73.996390°. It was completed in 1883. At the time it opened, and for several years, it was the longest suspension bridge in the world and it has become a famous and iconic landmark of New York. The bridge has a wide pedestrian walkway open to walkers and cyclists. This walkway takes on a special importance in times of difficulty when usual means of crossing the East River have become unavailable as happened during several blackouts and most famously after the September 11, 2001, attacks.

8 Facts you may or may not know about Ellis Island

1 It was called Gibbet Island in the early 18th century after a group of pirates were hung from gibbets there.

8 At its peak in 1907, the Immigration Station processed a record 1.25 million immigrants; 11,747 were processed in a single day.

2 Immigrants had to answer 29 questions to gain citizenship. Approximately 2 percent of all immigrants failed due to criminal records, disease, or other undesirable responses.

7 A kitchen fire on June 15, 1897 destroyed the entire station. The flow of immigrants had to be rerouted to a temporary location until the station was rebuilt and reopened in 1900.

3 The station dining room was capable of housing approximately 1,000 people at once.

6 As immigration slowed during World War I, the island was used as a way-station for the Army and Navy.

4 The remains of 6 Native Americans were removed from Ellis and Liberty Islands and have since been returned to their resting places by the National Park Service.

5 The immigration station processed its last immigrants on November 12, 1954. Today, it functions as a museum.
